The EML difference

We're committed to achieving industry-leading return to work outcomes and improving work health and safety for the benefit of workers, employers and the broader community.

We believe our difference is our primary focus on workers compensation and our commitment to superior service

Our people are specialists, with the expertise to work with you to effectively manage your premium and claims, and help your workers recover from injury and get their lives back.

Mobile case management

Our mobile case managers are empowered to make on-the-spot decisions to fast track treatment, helping workers recover and return to work sooner.

Mental injury specialists

Our in-house specialists work with workers, employers and treatment providers to ensure workers with a mental injury get the support they need to recover and return to work.

In-house pharmacists

Our in-house pharmacists review the use of opioids by injured workers and work with them, and their GP, to provide education about the health risks of these strong pain medications and to explore other pain management options.

Mutual Benefits Program

We support our customers with additional services, training and resources. Over $142M has been invested by the Program since 2012, with $17M in Victoria.

Transition support service

We've developed a new tailored service to make it easier for long-term injured workers to transition from the workers compensation scheme.

Voice of the customer

We use a real time surveying tool to address specific worker issues as they arise and offer immediate service to improve satisfaction. This survey information helps us to better understand individual customers wants and needs.

Since 2012, the Mutual Benefits Program has invested over $142M to help employers create safer workplaces and injured workers to recover and get their lives back sooner
